

SAP Team and System: New Year, New Name

Effective March 1st, 2019 the SAP Team and SAP System will now be officially known as the Nebraska Business Information System (NeBIS), which is pronounced “knee-biss”. The new NeBIS Team combines support for the SAP System into a single support group that includes our functional SAP leaders, system developers, security, and business support staff. The NeBIS Team supports the employee business portal Firefly, the core SAP business system and the associated components and business processes for the University of Nebraska and the State College system. It also includes administrative management and communication in areas such as payroll, human resources, eSHOP, Concur, financial systems, and other system components.

We believe the NeBIS name change better describes the collective business services, processes, practices and system components that support our business end-user communities, and moves away from the specific vendor name of SAP as the single product reference point. You will continue to see references to SAP as our core ERP application, however NeBIS will be used when referencing all business components and processes collectively, together. Additionally, the new name NeBIS also aligns with our Nebraska Student Information System (NeSIS).

Over the next few weeks and months, you will begin seeing additional references to NeBIS, in place of the SAP system and SAP support team.

If you have additional questions or suggestions, please do not hesitate to email or reach out to Don Mihulka, or me.

Thank you,
Susan
